THE CORRIDOR

EL ARCO, the "golden arch" is a natural rock formation that lies adjacent to Playa del Amor (Lover's Beach). This distinctive landmark erupts from the sea at the Baja Peninsula's tip. Just south of the Arch is Land's End, a rock that juts over the water, marking the end of Baja California and the beginning of continuous open waters ending at the South Pole! Hail a boat taxi to view not only the rock formation but mammals such as sea lions and whales. A sandy beach is rarely seen at the arch due to a unpredictable tide pattern.
