“MAYAN WEDDING CEREMONY”

US $1,144.00

(Price includes ceremony set-up only)

The Mayan wedding is performed in a traditional manner, with prayers into Mayan language with explanations and translations into Spanish or English.

This ceremony may be performed every day of the week with previous confirmation and the ceremony lasts approximately 30 minutes.

The wedding couple is accompanied by musical instruments, songs and copal to the altar where they receive the first blessing. A Mayan prayer is said, the seashells are sounded asking for permission to the gods, special attention and blessings from the four cardinal points. A sacred balché drink is blessed with smoke from the copal presented and shared to feed the soul.

Bracelets are exchanged representing the rings of love that unite them. Prayers are said asking for blessings from the four elements, dried beans of four colors are offered. The wedding couple offer maize and cocoa with the intention of creating a beautiful relationship and they are blessed along with white and yellow flower petals which represent the sun and the moon, the man and the woman and symbolizing the uniting of their lives.

At the end, they deliver the flowers offering to the sea, accompanied by music, song and the sounds of seashells being blown. In order to provide this ceremony, we would need the following requirements: Complete names and birthdates of the wedding couple.

IMPORTANT: There will be an additional charge for beach location fee, please ask your wedding coordinator. Prices are subject to change without notice

“MYSTICAL WEDDING”

US $1,079.00

(Price includes ceremony setup)

The mystical Native American wedding is steeped in tradition and can include any adaptations that the wedding couple desire. This is an emotional and profound ceremony that touches the hearts of the wedding couple as well as the invited.

This ceremony may be performed every day of the week with previous confirmation. The wedding couple arrives at the altar and the shaman welcomes them and announces the purpose of the ceremony.

The seashells are sounded, the drum is pounded, and permission is asked of the four corners (east, west, north and south) as well as of the skies, the superior powers, the mother earth and all those who inhabit her and her heart, the center of love. A central point is established and the purpose of the ceremony is given: the spiritual union of the couple.

The godparents of the wedding cover the couple in a cloak that has ribbons of the seven colors of the rainbow which will encircle the wedding couple in their love. The cloak symbolizes the universe and the ribbons are the seven rays of light.

During this union, the shaman blesses them with the four elements. Grains of maize will be offered to mother earth, blessing them with abundance and food. They will be blessed with water, flowers and prayers for their relationship.

Perfumed with the blessing of copal, prayers will be offered for understanding in their relationship.

And finally, they will be blessed with the Spirit of Fire, so that they can receive positive energy and creativity during their union.

These blessings are accompanied by traditional instruments and song.

The couple then delivers their vows to the godparents, parents and close ones who likes to share their wishes and advice (optional). The shaman then takes off the cloak and asks the wedding couple for the rings.

He asks the wedding couple to express between them whatever words they want to say to their partner.
